ABOUT

Frank is a New Orleans native with a deep understanding of the city's unique neighborhoods and business districts. With six years of experience in commercial real estate, he focuses on helping clients navigate the market with practical insight and personalized service.

Prior to brokerage, Frank was a small business owner and entrepreneur, an experience that allows him to closely relate to the clients he serves. Having built and operated a business himself, he understands the challenges owners face and brings a practical, solutions-oriented perspective to every transaction. Frank's commercial real estate background also includes time in Dallas, Texas, where he worked as a tenant representation specialist assisting small business owners in securing the right space for their operations.

Outside of work, Frank enjoys camping, fishing, cooking, and hosting gatherings with family and friends. He and his wife, Perry, have a daughter, Samona, and enjoy spending time along the Gulf Coast, especially boating around Bay St. Louis. Frank is also a big live music fan and rarely misses festivals like Jazz Fest or Mardi Gras.
